Dependable Service Everywhere: Challenges Addressed by MERA

Many original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) and distributors of medical, laboratory, and life science equipment experience service challenges such as PM backlogs, device installation spikes, delayed on-site response, and the like. As a service partner MERA assists its clients in addressing the following gaps and pain points:

- Expand support footprints and bandwidth by engaging some or all of MERA’s 90+ service locations across the US and Canada.
- Reduce or eliminate PM backlogs by leveraging any of MERA’s 300+ field service technicians.
- Perform device retrofits and upgrades with MERA resources.
- Realize sales revenue sooner by utilizing MERA installation support.
- Increase service bandwidth by leveraging MERA for scheduled and break/fix service.
- Safeguard direct technician investment and prevent burnout through territory-sharing with MERA.

MERA Client Relationships - What to Expect:

Client – MERA relationships begin with an onboarding teleconference, which formally initiates MERA’s Client Integration Process. An onboarding teleconference confirms the desired service model, dispatch and reporting processes, and technical training requirements, as well as other crucial service aspects. Once the call is complete, agreed-to next steps are in place with actionable follow-up assigned to key client and MERA personnel. Technical training is held as needed, and service dispatch and delivery processes are created to effect successful service. Dependable Service Everywhere is one of the reasons clients engage MERA as a corporate service solution. Adherence to the ISO 9001:2015 requirements assures MERA remains a corporate solution.

Value Clients Receive with MERA:
